The Prophet Ezekiel

The Vision of the Valley of Dry Bones (Ezekiel 37)

Ezekiel was carried away captive to Babylon at the age of twenty-five—one of 10,000 captives. In the fifth year of his captivity God called the young priest to prophesy to “a rebellious nation, impudent and stubborn.” For more than twenty-five years Ezekiel faithfully carried Jehovah’s message of recompense upon a rebellious house and the restoration of a holy remnant, to a captive nation in a distant and foreign land. In this study the book will be analyzed in twenty-six lessons placing emphasis on understanding the prophet’s presentation of Messiah as the Second David.
